Hire Velocity

Valeri is a seasoned, senior executive with over 25 years of experience and a proven track record of maximizing shareholder value in start-up and high-growth companies. Operating as President or CEO for over 10 years, Valeri has built private companies from the ground up, run public company divisions, raised funding, integrated acquisitions, sold a company and assisted in an IPO.

Valeri began her career in telecommunications, and after numerous functional roles, became President of Ameritech's Interactive Media Services division. She launched Ameritech's entry into the Internet marketplace with the development of the award-winning Online Yellow Pages site and ISP service. Following the acquisition by SBC (now AT&T), Valeri led SBC's national Internet division of over 1,000 employees.

After leaving the public company world, Valeri ran private technology companies in Massachusetts, North Carolina and now Florida. She joined Hire Velocity, a technology enabled national recruiting company, in 2009 as CEO where she is driving the company's vision, revenue growth and scalability.

Valeri received her MBA, with distinction, from the University of Michigan. She is Vice Chair of Membership for the Tampa Bay CEO Council, Vice Chair of the American Cancer Society's Breast Cancer Awareness Walk and on the Advisory Board for USF's Center for Entrepreneurship. She is the proud mother of three and lives in Tampa with her husband Tim, who is President of Metropolitan Ministries, the local homeless shelter.
