

ADVISORY COUNCIL

Tim Merrick, Vice President Global Investments Finance

MetLife

Tim Merrick is a financial executive with broad experience in executive and financial management, accounting, assurance, controllership, treasury, strategy development and operations management, including roles in controllership, treasury and as chief financial officer in public and private companies. He holds the designations of Certified Professional Accountant (CPA) and Chartered Global Management Accountant (CGMA).

In Merrick's current role at MetLife, he leads global investment reporting, analytics and financial planning and analysis processes, including leading transformation initiatives to leverage scale, simplify and digitize, as well as, leading financial management operations for private investments including commercial, agricultural and residential mortgage loans. He also advocates for and influences emerging US and International capital standards for MetLife and global insurers.

Merrick also serves as Chairman on the Board of Directors for Feeding Tampa Bay, which focuses on providing food to over 1 million food insecure families in the 10-county area of West Central Florida.