

Amanda E. Klaiber, DMSc, MPH, PA-C

Amanda Klaiber began her work at the University of Tampa Physician Assistant Medicine program in June 2020. She has served as the Chair of the Diversity & Inclusion Committee since December 2020. She currently teaches in Clinical Medicine I and III, Preventive Medicine, Specialty Medicine II, Community Medicine and Applied Patient Care Skills II and III. Prior to joining the UT family, she served as an adjunct professor at George Washington University in Washington, DC where she also practiced.

Klaiber has practiced in emergency medicine, and psychiatry in both the inpatient and outpatient setting. Amanda Klaiber earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Spelman College and holds a Master of Public Health degree from Morehouse School of Medicine. She went on to complete her Master of Medical Sciences-PA degree from Emory University School of Medicine. Klaiber earned a Doctorate of Medical Science from Lincoln Memorial University.